

GERMAN U-BOATERS GUN SALVOES TRY TO START REVOLT

Outbreak Speedily Quelled and Traitors Are Punished, Says German Minister of Marine in Statement to the Reichstag; Other Advises Say Uprising in Navy Is Suppressed Only With the Greatest Difficulty.

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 10.—A revolutionary outbreak on German warships at Wilhelmshaven about six weeks ago is reported to be a Central News dispatch from Copenhagen. The uprising is said to have had all the elements of a widespread revolt and to have been suppressed only with the greatest difficulty.

Soldiers Also Revolt.
Several mutinous outbreaks also are reported to have occurred among soldiers at the front. They were not of such a grave character, the dispatch says.

Admiral Announces Revolt.
Copenhagen, Denmark, Oct. 10.—In announcing to the Reichstag yesterday that a plot had been discovered in the German navy to paralyze the fleet, vice admiral von Capelle, the minister of marine, is quoted in a Berlin dispatch as saying:

Paralyze Fleet, Force Peace.
"It is unfortunately a sad fact that the Russian revolution turned the heads of some persons in our navy and introduced revolutionary ideas among them. Their insane plan was to recruit representatives on all the ships to cause the crews to refuse to obey orders, to paralyze the fleet and force peace upon the country."

Traitors Suffer Penalty.
"It is proved that the principal instigator confessed in this building with the independent Socialist faction in the Reichstag, explained his plan to deputies Hase and Vogtherr and obtained their approval."

Links Radical Socialists.
Admiral von Capelle said that he had linked the radical Socialists with the plot. He said the ringleader had discussed the plot with deputies Hase and Vogtherr.

"Jan. 2. Secret. General staff desires energetic action in regard to proposed destruction of Canadian Pacific Railway at several points, with view to complete and protracted interruption of traffic. Count Bernstorff, who is known on your side, and is shortly returning, has been given instructions. Inform the military attaché and provide the necessary funds."

Embargo Favorable to Germany.
The following telegram from count von Bernstorff to the foreign office in Berlin was sent in September, 1915:

French Renew Attack and Advance; British Outposts Are Thrown Back; Large Gains Made in Ypres Again

BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Oct. 9.—(Delayed).—The blow struck by the British and French forces today against a wide section of the German defenses between the Houtholst forest and Broedsele has resulted in another great success. Over most of this front, the attackers have swept forward to a depth of 1200 yards or more, overturning many important strongholds of the shattered enemy.

One Counter Attack Smashed.
The Germans attempted an earlier attack of considerable size. This was repulsed by the British and was smashed by the British.

One Division Wiped Out.
An in the last battle last Thursday, a large body of Germans was caught unaware and virtually wiped out. An entire German division—the 22nd—was brought up during the night to relieve the division in the line between Poelcapelle and the Houtholst forest.

German Losses Hard Hit.
Again the German losses have been great, and reports from all along the line indicate that their organization morale was hit hard. The rain of the last two days had turned much of the fighting ground into a morass, through which the French and British flourished knee deep. How they could ground, much less fight over it, is the amazing thing. This very fact undoubtedly contributed to the French triumph, for German prisoners say nobody on their side had thought the allies would advance under such conditions.

Pancho Villa, Banquet Chief, Scorns An Alliance With The German Kaiser For U. S.

German Countess Tells of Her Efforts to Involve the "Hyena of the Hills" in War With United States, of Her Rescue by a German Agent From El Paso and of the Theft of Her Papers From U. S. Agent.

The Herald prints today another of the series of astonishing revelations of German political intrigue throughout the world written by the countess von Schaumburg, self-confessed agent of the Wilhelmstrasse.

In this installment countess von Schaumburg describes her visit to Pancho Villa, one of the most exciting of her adventures, the result of which caused such a sensation throughout the world. Europe, accustomed to scandal in high political life, has raised its eyebrows in amazement at these stories, which are also appearing in the Empire News, a British weekly. It is stated that the countess's confessions were abstracted from her attack case by an enemy who followed her to Berne from which city she began her plotting.

By COUNTESS HILDA VON SCHAUMBURG.
(Beautiful German Noblewoman in the Secret Service of the Kaiser.)
I WAS to the other jefe, Pancho Villa, therefore, that we looked to drive the English from their oil wells and invade the United States territory when the foolish Yankees went to war with us. Having already benefited through one experience with that Mexican Mendez, I decided to be more prudent, especially when it concerned money. I decided to see Villa without the loss of any time. I had to spend the sum of 10,000 marks, however, in order to find out where I could locate him. And I had to spend another 25,000 marks in order to secure an interview with this man of the mountains. I had to travel to the western coast in order to find him, for his exact whereabouts was not known in Mexico City, where they spat when they mentioned his name.

GIRL MISSING; FLED WITH CHINAMAN

Daughter of New York Man Can't Be Found; Chinaman Held.

ADmits TAKING GIRL TO PEKIN

On Return, Chinaman Says
Girl at Chicago Address;
It's Vacant Lot.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 10.—Hope of finding Virginia Collier, 16 years old, daughter of a wealthy New York manufacturer, in Chicago, practically has been abandoned for the time being, it was stated at detective headquarters today. Lieut. James Von Welsensleben, of the New York police, who has been here for several days in connection with the case, returned to New York last night. He will put further questions to Lee Moy, a Chinaman under arrest there in connection with Miss Collier's disappearance, who said the girl was in Chicago.

Fled With Chinaman.
The girl was traced here, following her elopement across the Pacific ocean and back with Lee Moy. Lee Moy, who is said to be highly educated, was arrested on September 20 on a technical charge of entering the country without a permit and sent to Ellis Island. He admitted taking the girl to Peking, China, it is said, and told where she might be found in Chicago. The address he named here was found to be a vacant lot.

Was Settlement Worker.
Miss Collier was a settlement worker and the daughter of a wealthy New York manufacturer. She frequently visited Chinatown, where Moy operated several restaurants. Moy is said to have confessed that he saw the girl in 1916 and she left for Chicago, where he met her and both proceeded to China according to his story, becoming business, left him here and went to New York to visit her father. Moy asserts this is the last he saw of her.

The War At A Glance

FIELD MARSHAL HAIG, with the help of the French, has struck another successful blow in the Ypres salient and the German tannery of the dominant ridge east of Ypres is nearing an end. The British yesterday captured further sections of the ridge in the direction of Paschendaele and British guns now dominate that part still in German hands, as well as the railway centers of Staden, Roulers and Menin and the rail road between Roulers and Menin.

German Counter Attacks Came promptly last night after yesterday's allied advance in Flanders, but were launched in only a limited area, and without any success of moment.

French Were Not Disturbed in the occupation of their new ground, and they were ready to press forward, pressing eastward from the village of Braebant and occupying Papeete farm.

One more stroke—perhaps the decisive one—was made by the allies in Flanders and retreat should be the result. The line of Bruges-Thielt-Cortlaile, they would relinquish their hold on the greater part of the Belgian coast now used by them for submarine bases.

CHICAGO FALLS TO SCOPE IN A HARD HITTING CONTEST

Robertson of Giants Secures First Score in the Game and Becomes Hero of the Polo Grounds as Giants Struggle to Overcome the Two Game Lead of the Sox; Good Game Despite Cold.

At New York: 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9—R. H. E.
Chicago: 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 5 3
New York: 0 0 0 2 0 0 0 0 x—2 8 2

Batteries: Chicago, Cicotte and Schalk; New York, Benton and Rariden.

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The New York Giants won the third game of the world series for the baseball championship this afternoon by a score of 2 to 0. It was their first victory, and a pitchers' battle.

Rube Benton, southpaw pitcher for the Giants, put his team back into the running by pitching a wonderful game and he was given the utmost support by his teammates who cut down, one after another, hits which threatened to be dangerous. Cicotte pitched his usual excellent game for Chicago and gave the Giants a hard run for their money.

Robertson of the Giants put over the first run in the game and heartened the Giants to go after some more. This was in the fourth inning. In the same inning another run was scored for New York. The rest of the game was scoreless. Cicotte held the Giants to zero thereafter while Benton's left hand curves baffled the hard fighting Sox. Wonderful baseball was played in the very opposite of baseball weather.

An early turnstile count indicated over 35,000 persons jammed into the vast concrete and wooden stands of Brush stadium.

"We will try to make it four straight," said manager Rowland as he led his warriors on to the field. Manager McGraw realized the task was a hard one, and he had a few last things to say to his men in the clubhouse before the contest. The Giants hoped for a few breaks in the game to get them started.

A threatening morning cleared toward noon. A windy day, with a wind whirled across the field, and while it made the fans shiver, it swept away some of the clouds and there was a cheer when the sun broke through and blue sky appeared.

Both Teams Lagged.
White Sox and Giants, thoroughly rested after their two days of idleness, were ready to return to the fray today if the weather behaved and battle for supremacy in the third game of the series for the baseball championship of the world.

Chicago is eager to win four straight and New York must take the third game to increase the team's chances of finally winning out.

Cold Wind in Morning.
A cold north wind gave an overcast sky and the fans little to hope at 8 a. m. The rain that caused a special series of games, had ceased falling at dusk, but overhead conditions this morning gave promise of a dry, rather warm day, with a warm sun to cheer players and spectators.

Giants Brave the Cold.
Despite last night's rain and the cold, penetrating northeast wind, many fans turned out again, bringing with them the usual paraphernalia of the ball park game. The crowd began to grow with the first streaks of dawn and when the game began to play, the atmosphere was very warm. Seats were occupied by a large number of persons who had yesterday a cold rain and sat in the uncovered seats in the dampness were humored for today's game.

Special gates were opened for the holders of checks. A large number of the rain checks fell into the hands of speculators, who, in many cases, bought them at a reduction from face value, who could not attend today's game.

Intense Fervor.
The intense fervor which yesterday's rain began, and was dry and fairly fast. The outfield, however, was somewhat heavy, but not too heavy to make it especially difficult for the fielders.

Chicago Team on Edge.
It was held by the Chicago fanatics that the two defeats sustained by the National League in Chicago had severely shaken the pitching staff. Manager McGraw's pitching staff, however, was not shaken. The team felt enforced to play the game and the close followers of the team felt enforced to play the game and the close followers of the team felt enforced to play the game.

By the same token, New York supporters argued, the likelihood did not lie with the White Sox any more. The team was on edge, playing right for their friends.

Lacked in a House.
I could not understand what he meant. However, he said, the White Sox were very indignant that I suspected anything wrong of him. Although Villa claimed that he was not considering me as a woman, but an ambassador, yet I did not understand why he intended to do with me. And why he wanted to hand me over to his "American friends."

I was frightened now, and more frightened when I was taken to a horrible little hut and looked in there with only a candle for light.

Promised Her Safe Conduct.
Now he was becoming hateful. "Dear son, I shall not hold you against your wishes. You will remain with me of your own free will. You are not."

I could no longer bear him, but what could I do? I was his prisoner, his chattel slave. I would not have argued with him longer. But I was desperate. In my excitement I forgot and tried to appeal to his humanity. "Do you consider this man to hold a woman against his wishes?"

Upon this he again smiled and I was about to again in terror when he said: "No, dear son, I am not dealing with a woman. I am dealing with a special envoy from your country, representing to me that I become your ally and attack our neighbor. Villa will never leave you. You are free, that is not Villa. I have an American friend for whom I have sent. He, perhaps, will take you away from here. A good man. He will conduct you safely to your friends."
